

As a dynamic consultant you probably spend more of your time than you would choose, sitting in front of your computer. The view becomes stale, it drives out positive thought and over exposure to the same frames prevents you from driving forward and excelling. The secret is to change your working environment as many times as possible. In doing so you find new ideas and concepts, see how others perform in given situations and find new ways to work and attract clients. In 44 Cool Places for Consultants to Work From, by Landi Jac, the award-winning consultant and published author takes you on a journey to help discover your full potential as a consultant. She looks at dozens of different places where you can set up and change your view. Most of us might agree that the beach or library would be a good place to work from, but who really ever gave consideration to a museum or theatre as a viable alternative? Landi not only thinks out of the box when it comes to her suggestions, she also gives you the reasons why your company can grow by using them through her "growth tips."™ And with a bonus chapter devoted to the top 20 locations your clients love to hang out in, you will find your business will grow and flourish in some of the most unlikely places.
